COUNTY OFFICIAL RAPS HIGH ASSESSMENT

Daly City Mourns Death of "Marcie"

Mrs. Marcella "Marcie" Trier, 52, Daly City's head librarian, passed away in Junipero Serra hospital Friday an hour after she had collapsed while on her way to the library.

Mrs. Trier, who had lived at 158 Woodrow street with her husband, Edward Trier, was walking along Vista Grande avenue on her way to work when she complained of feeling weak and collapsed to the pavement. She was taken immediately to Junipero Serra hospital, where she died shortly after before regaining consciousness, apparently from cerebral hemorrhage.

Born in Menasha, Wisconsin, in 1899, "Marcie," as she was known to her many local friends, came to Daly City in 1924, two years after her marriage to Edward Trier.

She started to work as assistant librarian here in April, 1943, and was appointed head librarian on Jan. 12, 1948.

She was a member of the Eagle's auxiliary; past president of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 410; past president of Twenty-sixth district American Legion Auxiliary; past president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; member of 8 and 40 San Mateo Salon; past arch druidess, Hillcrest circle 143; past secretary of the Daly City employees' association; secretary of the Daly City public library commission; and past president Chapter 16, San Mateo county, D.A.D.

Surviving her are her husband, Edward; her mother, Mrs. John Robinson; two sisters, Mrs. Gwen Murphy and Margaret Robinson; three brothers, Jack, Joseph and Edward Robinson, all of Wisconsin; five nieces, and 10 nephews.

Funeral services were held Monday from the W. C. Lasswell mortuary and were followed by a requiem mass of Our Lady of Perpetual Help church. Interment was at Golden Gate National cemetery, San Bruno, and rosary was recited at the mortuary at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Hillcrest circle, Druidesses, held services at 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Daly City library was closed Friday afternoon and Monday morning in memory of Mrs. Trier.

Lorraine De Fanti, assistant librarian, will act as city librarian until the time when a new librarian is appointed. Friday, Jan. 16, has been set as the deadline for applications for the position as head librarain here. Those applying for the position must have one year's residence in Daly City. Following submission of applications for the position a civil service test will be given to applicants.

Jeff Included In County Survey Of High School Grads

Jefferson high school's graduates of 1947, 1950, and 1952 will be among the 3800 graduates of San Mateo county high schools who will have an opportunity to voice opinions about their former high schools this month.

Throughout the county, questionnaires have been sent to the graduating classes of those years inviting an evaluation of how successful their high schools were in preparing them for post-high school life.

Questions concern value of extra-curricular activities, subjects of least and most value, post-high schooling, jobs held after graduation, marital status and leisure time activities.

This follow-up study is a cooperative effort of the San Mateo County Superintendent's Office and the high schools to glean statistical information which will assist them in planning a curriculum most beneficial to students in the area. Edward Walsh, coordinator of counseling for Capuchino high school; Shepard A. Insel, coordinator of pupil personnel services for the Sequoia Union high school district, and James A. Saum, consultant in guidance for the county superintendent's office are heading the survey.

Daly City's Head Librarian Passes Away

HER MANY FRIENDS in Daly City were grieved at the death of Marcella "Marcie" Trier, Daly City's head librarian, who was a resident here 28 years.

Past and Present D. C. Rec. Heads Meet

INCOMING and outgoing recreation directors of Daly City met this week. James Mason, left, former Fairfield recreation director, assumed his duties Monday. Past director, Elman Rose, will remain with the recreation department for a short time to show the new director around.

States That Utilities Have Saved $274,000

County Tax Collector Ralph MacArthur told THE RECORD this week that Daly City property owners were treated in a "highly unjust" manner in the recent 50 per cent assessment boost.

MacArthur, confirming the belief of many Daly City residents that tax liens were out of line, also pointed out that the new assessment raise has saved county utilities $273,908.43 in taxes. "This money is coming out of the little man's pocket," he added.

The county officer explained that while a blanket 50 per cent raise in assessment of real property was made, there was no raise on utility assessments, which are set by the state. However, he said, rate of taxation on utilities is set locally. Therefore, he pointed out, the utilities benefited by the reduction in rate. Despite this saving, the utilities continue to raise rates, he added.

Reilly Responsible

MacArthur said George Reilly, head of the state board of equalization, was the man responsible for the 50 per cent assessment raise that has saved the utilities nearly $300,000 in taxes this year.

He pointed out that there were many inequities in tax assessments throughout the county, but that Daly City had fared worse than the rest.

He explained that, due to lack of adequate personnel, a lot of property in the county had not been re-evaluated for some ten years. Just prior to the blanket 50 per cent increase, he said, a good deal of the homes were re-assessed. Then on top of the re-assessment, the 50 per cent increase was piled on, he said. Tax increases varied from 100 to 500 per cent in some areas, he added.

MacArthur was of the opinion that ired property owners will soon bring the matter to court.

Ridiculously High

He said some houses in Daly City that he knew were 50 or 60 years old had been given ridiculously high assessments.

"Something has to be done," MacArthur said. "Some sort of citizens' group will probably launch an investigation into the matter." (The Westlake Improvement association is conducting a study of the high assessments at present).

MacArthur also critized the Jefferson elementary school district and said their request for a higher tax rate was one factor in the high taxes for local residents.

He explained that for the previous year the district's tax rate was 93 cents per $100 assessed valuation. "In spite of the 50 per cent assessment increase which will bring them additional revenue, the district rate has now been set at $1.56, which is entirely out of line," he said. "Had the district not asked for the rate boost, the Daly City property owners would be paying a lower rate."

Discrepancy in Rates

Showing the discrepancy in rates, MacArthur pointed out that Daly City's lien for 1951-52 was $5.13 per $100 assessed valuation, while this year it is $4.58—a reduction of only 10 per cent in rates (when plans were made for the 50 per cent assessment jump the estimated rate reduction for county areas was 26 per cent.

For the '51-'52 period in San Mateo the rate was $6.75. This year it is $4.99, or more than a 25 per cent reduction in rates.

MacArthur said he has been flooded with calls from taxpayers who were appalled at their high taxes this year. He said he was in complete sympathy with their complaints, but that he was powerless to do anything toward lowering the taxes.

Statements of the county tax collector followed closely on the announcement last week by Joseph Gilmore, 754 Niantic, a veteran assemblyman, who said that "Daly City is taking a beating on property assessments." Gilmore suggested that an independent group be formed to go through the entire county and make a complete reassessment of property.

Charity Fund Still Needs Contributions

Letters inviting the business and professional men of Daly City to contribute to the St. Vincent de Paul Society's Christmas Charity Fund have been mailed out by the volunteer citizen's committee headed by Peter Markovich, Mayor Anthony Gaggero and Councilmen Paul Green and James Kennedy.

Proceeds from the fund go to purchase baskets for needy families in the area at Christmas time.

Contributions are beginning to come into the office of Chairman Peter Markovich, 6454 Mission street, who has publicly acknowledged with gratitude donations from the following: Dr. L. B. Mahan, A. Parmisano, M. Bertolucci, W. T. Kennedy, Thomas Bocci, Jr., Francis Duffy, Paul Marchi, George Glass, Karl Kittler, Willis O'Brien, McGraw Brothers, A. Panella, Frank Blum, Tom Tromberg, Nildo Firpo, Bob Lucier, Bob Colthurst, Isabelle Liberti, Frank Gigli, and L. B. McGeein.

"The need is still great. Several new families have been reported in the past week whose Christmas would be bleak indeed were it not for the existence of the Christmas Charity Fund," Markovich said.

"The measure of happiness that can be brought to the needy in our midst is limited only by the funds available," he added.

Markovich said further that the greater the number of donations, the more generous the distribution of the things that delight the

Chest Drive Reaches 81 Per Cent of Quota

The local Community Chest drive has now reached 51 per cent of its quota, chairman Fred Bertetta announced this week.

He said a total of $4660 had been collected to date. Percentages for the various divisions were: business, 86 pe rcent; residential, 22 per cent; professional, 90 per cent.

Bertetta said the drive will continue until the quota is reached. He said letters will be sent out to the areas that haven't been covered as yet, namely the Crocker Tract and Vista Grande sections.

Daly City is way behind other areas in chest contributions, he said, pointing out that throughout the county 81 per cent of the goal has been reached.

NAB YOUTHS HERE AFTER ESCAPE FROM HILLCREST

Two escapees from the Hillcrest juvenile home wound up their car-theft escapade in Daly City Sunday when the auto they had stolen at Playland in San Francisco smashed into another vehicle here at Crocker and Mission streets.

The youths, according to authorities at Hillcrest, escaped from the home by picking the lock on the door of their room and crashing a large window in a hallway. One boy was a 16-year-old from South San Francisco, the other a 15-year-old from San Bruno.

According to Daly City police after the youths had stolen the car at Playland they proceeded to Daly City, running a red light at Crocker and Mission and smashing into a vehicle driven by Edward Palestro, of San Francisco.

Daly City police officers Arthur Linhares and James Welch gave chase in a patrol car and managed to stop the stolen car after a chase of about eight blocks.

The boys were returned to Hillcrest at 7:05 p.m. and placed in a special security room.

A New Slant To An Old Wives' Tale

The tired old story about the wife running the car through the garage got a new twist this week.

Mrs. Betty Carpenter, 195 Lake Vista, suffered injuries to her fingers, knuckles and left elbow Tuesday when her husband struck her as he was backing his car out of the garage.

ELDERLY MAN BEATEN HERE BY TEEN-AGERS

A 73-year-old Daly City man, David H. White, of 6055 Mission street, was hospitalized Saturday morning after he was attacked by a group of teen-agers on Mission street, police reported.

White told police he noticed a group of four youths, all about 18 or 20 years of age, acting boisterously on Mission street, near San Jose avenue. When he told them to quiet down, he said, the four boys turned around and began beating him with their fists. Poloce said they have no clues to the identity of the four youths.

Attendants at the hospital said White was released later this week. Only injuries suffered were bruises about the chest, they said.

Taylor "Not Guilty"

Cars, kids and cops all became inextricably involved in Judge William Sweeney's court Wednesday in the case of Mrs. Sue Adams and the state of California vs. Lee Taylor, accused of disturbing the peace.

The final result: not guilty, said Judge Sweeney, but the outcome was not final until a good two hours after the matter was opened.

Mrs. Adams, who lives at 138 Santa Cruz avenue, said that on many occasions (for legal correctness, Dec. 4), Taylor drove his car in front of her house and "jostled" it back and forth against the curb several times in a manner causing no small annoyance to Mrs. Adams and her neighbors who were viewing TV with her.

Unusual Noises

Then, adding insult to injury, Mrs. Adams said, Taylor removed himself from his car, strolled over to the fence about "10 or 12 feet" from Mrs. Adams' window and made violent gestures, contortions and "unusual loud noises." This Mrs. Adams said. caused her and her friends, Mrs. Sam Torgenson, 127 Santa Cruz avenue, and Mrs. Harold Clifford, 148 Santa Cruz avenue, much consternation and distracted them from their televiewing.

Mrs. Adams' friends were there to back her statements, but Taylor was not to be outdone, having a total of seve. Santa Cruz avenue residents there to vouch for his character, his children's character, and his driving habits. Also thrown in was one police officer, Dave Johnstone, who vouched that he had not seen Taylor commit any such acts complained of by Mrs. Adams.

Wasn't Even Home

In fact, according to Taylor and several of his seven favorable witnesses, he wasn't even home, nor had he been home between the hours of 8-9 p.m., the time he allegedly committed a disturbance on the peace of Santa Cruz avenue.

Dale Warnick, 131 Santa Cruz avenue, was one of the witnesses to verify Taylor's absence. He also pointed out how "there were about 17 kids in the street on that day, "when Officer Johnstone arrived, supposedly on complaint of Mrs. Adams. He said there had been "about 67 such complaints" about children in the street in the past two months.

Getting a little away from the original tenor of the matter up for discussion, Warnick said the children had to play in the street, as there was no other recreation area nearby.

Time Marches On

After Tayor had queried about half of his witnesses, Judge Sweeney, along with other parties in attendance, noticed that time was marching on. So Sweeney asked that testimony of the other witnesses be dispensed with.

Judge Sweeney asked Taylor, "Are you ready to submit this matter to the court?"

"Yes, but can I appeal the verdict?"

"You may appeal it if you wish," Judge Sweeney said. "My verdict is not guilty."

But the judge had a word of admonition for the Santa Cruz avenue "neighbors." "I have only two more weeks on the bench here," Sweeney said, "and I would like to see this matter settled. It's silly for neighbors to bicker among themselves." He said the children should not be condemned for playing on the street, since there was not other available play space. He advised Taylor to assume a friendly attitude and that Mrs. Adams would probably reciprocate.

"You've still got to make good on these seven parking violations," Sweeney said to Taylor, as an afterthought.

Taylor had received the citations for parking on the street between the hours of 1-6 a.m. on numerous occasions.

Taylor and friends immediately rallied to the fore, claiming that their street was the only one in town where cars were tagged for overnight parking.

"Not so," said Judge Sweeney, but some of the Santa Cruz residents were still not in complete accord with his opinion.

Youth Confesses To Numerous Burglaries

John Patrick Kelley, 20, a laborer who lives at 59 Bismark street, this week confessed to nearly a dozen burglaries in the area plus numerous bad check counts.

Police said, however, that in none of the thefts were any of the goods recovered, since Kelley had sold them.

Kelley was picked up Monday morning about 9 o'clock after a woman had reported him sleeping in a car at Los Banos and Los Olivos. Sgt. David Hansen and Officer Robert Crooker responded to the call and found Kelley asleep there.

On questioning at the police station Kelley admitted to burglaring the B & G Grocery store, Hillside boulevard; Breuer Donut shop, 6208 Mission; car boost at Mission Auto court; two car boosts at Westlake Motel; breaking into Doelger's office and warehouse on two occasions and breaking into coke machine; burglary of Endurance Metal shop in Colma; numerous burglaries and car boosts in San Francisco; and passing fictitious checks at King's Market.

Kelley was turned over to officers of the California Youth Authority who said he would either be sent to Lancaster or San Quentin.

Daly City police officers picked up two youth Wednesday for questioning. One of the pair was a 16-year-old from Daly City while the other was a runaway from Los Altos.

The younger youth admitted he had left home over two weeks ago and had stolen two cars here.

Another Judge?

The county grand jury met last week and endorsed the movement to obtain an additional superior court for San Mateo county.

In a formal resolution submitted to the board of supervisors, the grand jury recommended that the legislature create the court at its next session.

In making the recommendation, the jury joined other groups and county officials who have urged the creation of another superior court.

County Clerk John A. Bruning said, "With the services of four full time superior court judges, we are able to meet only day to day requirements but not catch up on any of the big backlog of cases pending in the courts."

Bruning said he does not expect that the municipal courts which come into being Jan. 5 will relieve much of the load on the superior courts.

Urge Flood District

Establishment of an inter-city flood control district was urged last week by Burlingame's city attorney, I. Karmel, and public works director, George J. Marr.

Karmel said the district should include San Mateo, Burlingame, Hillsborough and possibly Millbrae and Belmont, and suggested it should be modeled after the east bay municipal utility district, which serves six east bay municipalities.

Busy Burglars

A wave of school burglaries on the peninsula beginning the first of this month was topped off last week with the ransacking of two schools in Burlingame, two in San Mateo and two in San Bruno, police report.

Method of operation was similar in each case, the burglars breaking in through windows and rifling administration offices, the principal's offices and usually the school nurses' rooms.

Slow Poisoning

Life of an entire San Mateo family was saved last week when it was discovered that the family had been living for weeks in a home reeking with carbon monoxide fumes.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morris and their 4-year-old son Steven had been living in a home at 402 Thirfty-ninth avenue for three weeks while carbon monoxide fumes from the floor furnace had been infiltrating the home.

The family had all complained of being ill and then Tuesday Morris managed to reach the home of a neighbor and call the fire department and his physician after noticing the serious condition of his wife and child.

The attending physician said the fumes would have killed the entire family soon if the trouble had not been located.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

Friday, Dec. 17—At its meeting Monday evening of this week the City council took another step forward to the acquiring of sites for the purpose of establishing recreational centers in Daly City.

At the last meeting the council voted to take an option on eight lots at the corner of Brunswick and Acton streets to be included in the play-ground program.

The body of an unidentified man was found Sunday by J. H. Zeigler, 1131 Brunswick street, where it had been washed ashore at Thornton beach.

The only clue to identiy was a silver belt buckle bearing the initial "W." The head, arms and legs were missing.

This week Jefferson Union high school introduced its first literary magazine, the Scroll, which is composed entirely of original writings of students. All the contributions were written voluntarily and the work of any student was welcomed. The mimeographing was done by the commercial classes and the art work was a contribution of the art class. The magazine is to be published once a semester.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

Friday, Dec. 16—The board of supervisors appropriated $1500 as San Mateo county's share in the cost of a preliminary survey for the new coast highway to follow the right of way of the former Ocean Shore railroad, and to be built under a joint highway district comprising San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Cruz counties at its session last Monday. This action followed an appropriation of $2500 by San Francisco.

Pointing out that no donation is too small, Markovich added, "It is these small contributions that make up the bulk of all charitable funds. It seems that the small donor realizes and appreciates that he will be happier in the knowledge that his donation has brought happiness to others."

Contributions should be mailed or brought to Peter Markovich, chairman, St. Vincent de Paul Society Christmas Charity Fund, 6454 Mission street.

Local Highway Patrol Needs Two Cashiers

Garland Bear, manager of the California highway patrol office here, has announced that two temporary positions for cashiers are open at the local office, 6165 Mission.

One-year's experience in handling cash is necessary, he said.

MARGIN OF SAFETY

Experienced professional drivers always leave a margin of safety between cars. Never follow another car closer than a full car's length at ten miles an hour. And when you're moving faster, leave a proportionately larger margin of safety, advises the California State Automobile Association. That's the way to prevent rear-end collisions.

ONLY ONE POLIO CASE REPORTED HERE FOR MONTH

Incidence of Polio for the Daly City-Colma area dropped to one case for the month of November, according to the San Mateo county department of public health and welfare.

A total of three cases had been reported here for the previous month.

Other diseases reported here were: Tuberculosis, one case; Gonorrhea, one case; mumps, one case.

The health department this week issued the following warning on animal rabies. "While the incidence of animal rabies in the state steadily decreases, the incidence of dog bites never seems to change. Reports are received daily of individuals bitten by their pets or by strange animals.

"If you are bitten by an animal consult your physician at once. A phrophylactic cleansing of the wound done as quickly after the injury as is possible greatly lessens the danger."

Drivers Will Be More Problem This Year - - - Peterson

Commissioner Clifford E. Peterson of the California Highway Patrol said today that the unsafe driver would be more of problem during the 1952 holiday season than in any previous similar period.

Christmas and New Year's are always dangerous traffic-wise because of drinking and preoccupation with holiday plans, he said, but added that record highs in the number of vehicles and drivers and in traffic volume would multiply the hazards this time.

Peterson pointed out that California now has approximately 5,500,000 vehicles and more than 6,000,000 drivers. "It's a good thing they don't all decide to go for a Sunday drive at the same time," he commented.

He warned motorists to be especially alert on congested highways where high speeds, following too closely, changing lanes without due caution and general inattention are causing many fatal and injury accidents.

"About ten persons a day are dying in traffic here in California," he said.

The Death of "Marcie" Trier

The death of "Marcie" Trier wasn't as the news accounts will state, the loss of Daly City's librarian—it was the loss of a woman who was a dear friend to many.

Many people merely referred to her as "the library lady." But what they meant with that short description was: The friendly and congenial lady who had a big smile and a cheerful hello—they might not have known her name, but she was not a stranger to anyone.

However they knew her—as Marcie Trier, as a friend, as "the librarian" they will never cease to miss her.

"Marcie" was the embodiment of that nebulous thing that people think of when they think of goodness. Tops on her list were children and pets, but she had ample affection left—many will recall how she went out of her way to be kind to everyone. "A sunny disposition," was the description of "Marcie," given by the assistant librarian, Lorraine De Fanti.

Besides her many attributes of personality, "Marcie' 'had the most remarkable blue eyes—a factor which was not considered physical, but as another facet of her pleasantness—they referred to her at times as "the lady with the beautiful blue eyes."

It is with reluctance that we admit the reality of the death of "Marcie" Trier.

The Mechanical Bandits Aren't Gone

The statement by San Mateo county District Attorney Louis B. Dematteis that, "I have not received a single complaint about pin-ball machines since the law came into being last August 21," was truly an honorable one.

Mr. Dematteis was referring to the law that regulated gambling on mechanical amusement devices.

Dematteis said. "As far as I know, there are no illegal pin-ball machines in San Mateo county. I have not heard of a single complaint since the ordinance became effective."

But, as hard as the minions of law have tried, the pin-ball machines that pay off are still in operation.

It's a very simple operation. What passes, lawfully, as a game of skill, becomes a game of chance at the option of the lessee of the machine.

Those who know the machines "pay off" frequent the places and try their hand at lady luck. Everybody knows about it, but still district attorneys make statements about the abolition of it.

Games where luck is found to be a dominant factor are not allowed —the law says—but without any strain the average citizen can find himself a machine that pays off—occasionally.

An Infringement on the Pocketbook

Bureaucracy at its best is evidenced in the state of California's quandry over Devil's Slide on Coast highway no. 1.

State highway division engineers have labeled as "prohibitive" any construction of a tunnel to by-pass the slide.

Yet only one month ago the state highway commission met in this city and seemed highly in accord with the plan for relocation of the entire highway to follow the Skyline route.

Why, in the name of the state and a more superior being, should all this discussion of a tunnel be pertinent when the state highway commission itself has already gone on record as being in favor of relocation of the highway.

In a recent four-paragraph public statement, R. M. Gillis of the highway division, pointed out that the tunnel would be unfeasible. He casually mentioned that the reconstruction of the highway above the slide area was the most feasible solution.

If the state plans to re-align the highway, why not take pity on the taxpayers and forget about the Devil's Slide tunnel—which would be only a historical landmark and an infringement on the citizen's pocketbook?

Christmas Is Everything

Christmas is many things.

It is fun and festivity and solemnity, too. Christmas is kindness. It is the warm heart and the warm hearth. It is the good in man and the good in all the world. Christmas is unselfishness, not just on December 25, but all the year 'round. Christmas is hope and good will; it is expectancy and fulfillment.

Christmas is white and red and green. It is peppermint sticks and mysterious bundles and whispered conversations. It is the smell of pine, the nip of winter air, the crackle of logs in the fireplace. Christmas is the light aglow in homes and shops and the brighter light in the eyes of eager youngsters.

Christmas is the renewal of friendships, the family reunions, the festive feasts, the giving of gifts. It is the swelling of voices in the beloved and sacred carols. Christmas is a jolly old gentleman with a snow white beard and eight famous reindeer.

Superficially, Christmas is a holiday; basically it is a spirit. It is the spirit of the Christ, the spirit which the man Jesus made manifest in his incomparable earthly career.

Christmas is the magic of life. May its magic fill your life not in this season alone but throughout the year and in all the years to come.

"Merry Christmas!"

As Bad As Communism

A federal judge in the Midwest, former Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl of Minnesota, this week called the American who drives his automobile while he is under the influence of alcohol "as great a menace to the dignity of human life as communism."

Judge Youngdahl went further, stating that the nation's traffic safety record could be "revolutionized overnight" with the saving of thousands of lives if sufficiently stiff penalties . . . were assessed against the drunken driver . . . the reckless driver and the speeder. There is no doubt that Judge Youngdahl's suggestion makes sense... Every Utahn remembers the furor a couple of years back stirred by a Salt Lake City judge's policy of jailing all persons found driving without a valid driver's license. . . More people came into the state drivers' license bureaus in a week or two than had appeared in a period of years. . .

H. L. Leatham, head of the drivers' license division, was moved to speculate on the effect of a similar program, with appropriate stiffer penalties, directed at the most dangerous of motoring sins—drunken and reckless driving, speeding and so on. "Too many people can pay a fine without it hurting too much," he said. "I think our drivers who get careless about their driving habits or about mixing alcohol and driving would take a different attitude if they KNEW a jail sentence would face them if they were caught."

If such a program were thoroughly and consistently enforced, it would surely be effective, and with the lives of our citizens at stake, it is surely worth a try.

Fortunately, It's Good Riddance

It is little wonder that the industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board quit in a body after President Truman overruled them and gave the full $1.90-per-day increase to John L. Lewis' coal miners. The additional 40 cents which the board wanted withheld may not prove inflationary. But the point is that the President chose to cut the ground from under the board and yet contends that controls should be maintained. This would seem to indicate that controls should be applied only against the groups not politically strong enough to induce the government to give them what they want. By this maneuver the President has paid a political debt to the Mine Workers Union, but will be able to throw onto the new administration the onus of abandoning controls, if this is done. However, to all intents and purposes, controls went out the window with Harry's gift to the miners. This is just another illustration of the Truman technique, which fortunately, we'll soon be rid of.

Councilman Selects Tree Among Distracting Surroundings

Three Wise Men Approach the Scene of the Birth of Christ

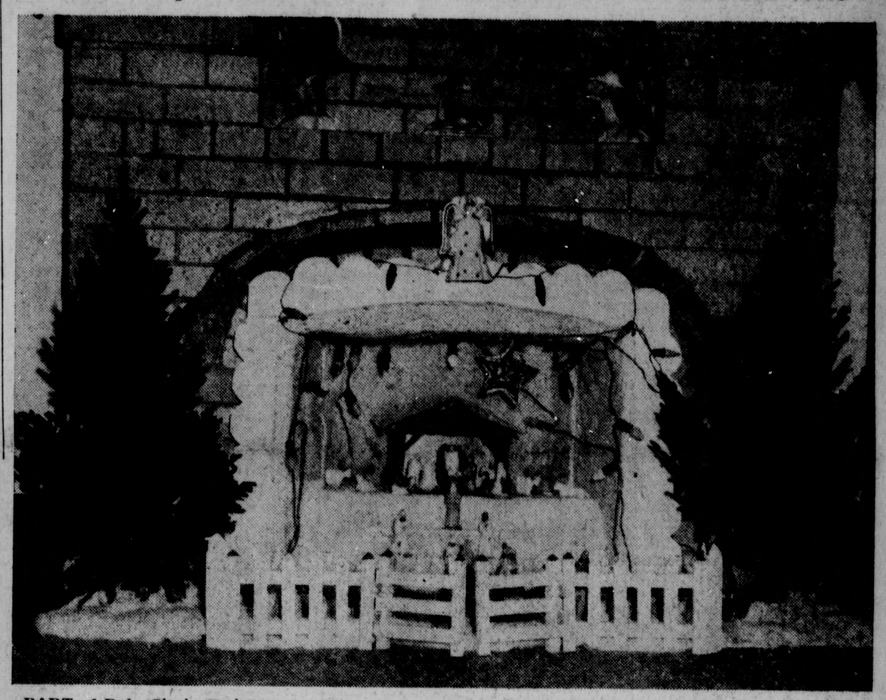

THREE WISE MEN approach scene of the Great King's birth. Addition of the three men bearing gifts was made this year at the Woodlawn Memorial park display. The wise men are situated south of the Nativity scene. Adding beauty to the display is the freshet running down the hillside between the wise men and the scene of Christ's birth.

Nativity Scene at Woodlawn Attracts Considerable Attention

THE ESSENCE of Christmas is portrayed in this scene at the Woodlawn Memorial park. The Nativity scene has been on display at the site the past four Christmases and attracts attention of the many El Camino travelers. The display is illuminated at night.

Christmas Spirit Is Reflected in D. C. Household Decorations

PART of Daly City's Christmas panorama is reflected in the home decorations, both interior and exterior. Shown here is a miniature nativity scene constructed in the fireplace of the home of Florence Cady, 1064 Brunswick. She started setting up the display on Christmas three years ago. Each year she and her father, John Cada, add something to the yuletide scene.

Santa Enjoys a $25,000 Headquarters at Westlake Display

LARGEST outdoor Christmas display in America is the Westlake Wonderland, situated in the Town and Country Shopping Center. At a cost of $25,000 the display is constructed of enough wood to build two five-room houses. Here Santa makes his headquarters among the 4000 moving and stationary pieces that compose the display. Two trains run on 800 feet of track. Kiddies can see Santa Claus and also take a free ride on the City of Westlake or Westlake Daylite.

COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS GROUP SENDS PINS TO ELEMENTARY, HIGH SCHOOLS

To give visual meaning to its program of health education in San Mateo county schools, the San Mateo county Tuberculosis and Health Association, with the cooperation of school district heads and teachers in all the schools, has distributed thousands of double barred cross bangle pins and Santa Claus buttons to students in all elementary and high schools. Containers have been placed in school rooms so that each child, if he wishes to, may feel he has a part in the Christmas Seal Sale by his contribution of pennies or dimes.

In elementary schools, teachers take time to explain the origin of Christmas Seals and the great progress made in the fight against TB in the forty six years since the first Seal appeared. Included in the talk is a simple explanation of good health practices which have been a factor in combating the disease.

In the high schools, pamphlets are distributed, telling in simple language and pictures the causes of TB, the steps being taken to conquer it, good health practices and how the work of the Tuberculosis Association is carried on with funds derived from its annual Seal Sale.

The Association's health education program is slanted at youngsters and oldsters alike in a constant effort to create a consciousness in the public mind of the vital importance of keeping the disease under control by everlasting vigilance in watching for new cases, in proper treatment of existing cases and the fact that TB can be stamped out if people will realize that it is a highly contagious disease and will treat it accordingly.

By its purchase and use of Christmas Seals, the public makes this program possible, for funds thus raised are the sole support of the work of the association.

Salinas Educator Says Trustee Job Is Difficult

Difficulties of a school trustee's job and the importance of contact between educational leaders and the taxpaying public were decisively recognized by Mrs. Russell Scott of Salinas, State Congress director of education, at a recent meeting of 17th District Parents and Teachers.

"In the past, little praise, loads of work, and sometimes a great deal of unwarranted criticism," said Mrs. Scott, "was all that the average school board member could look forward to for his labors.

"PTA members strive for sympathetic understanding of the board of trustees' problems, and then see to it that the general public is given intelligent interpretation of its accomplishments."

Mrs. E. I. Bhend, member of Brisbane School Board, outlined the responsibilities of trusteeship, and explained how members are elected to the board and how recall of any member, after due process, may be accomplished.

Local Man Promoted To Lieutenant Rank

FAR EAST (Delayed) — Walter J. Cavagnaro, husband of Mrs. Lillian M. Cavagnaro of 428 Irvington street, Daly City, has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant while on board the radar picket destroyer USS Rogers.

JEFFERSON PTA MEETS; ESSAY PLAQUE SHOWN

Jefferson Union high school PTA regular meeting was held at the high school recently. Mrs. Herman Kohlbrenner read a poem, "Christmas Day, by Dave Freeman. Mrs. Milton Jensen displayed the Jefferson essay plaque with the winners in the past years names engraved on the shields.

A pin from the PTA is to be given to the past winners and to the future winners hereafter. Mrs. John Eason made a report on the membership drive with a total of 88 new members taken into the PTA to date. Mrs. Stanford Hannah introduced Eunice Seaton and the chorus who sang some Christmas carols.

Dr. Elias Arneson, professor of humanities at San Francisco State college gave an interesting talk on Christmas customs in the Scandinavian countries. Having celebrated the holidays in these countries in his boyhood he told of some of the things his own family did. Miss Seaton's group sang a few more carols asking the audience to join in.

The evening made you realize Christmas Season was here. The PTA will have a pot luck dinner at the Masonic Hall Jan. 7. A very merry and happy holiday season is wished all of the members.

Couple Repeat Wedding Vows on Date of Fiftieth Anniversry.

"MARRIAGE" ceremony was held last Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Mack Marrs, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on that date. In rites held at the Nazarene church the couple repeated the vows they had made first back in 1902. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the couple's home at Palomar stables.

Mr. and Mrs. Mars Repeat Vows On Golden Wedding Anniv'ry.

At a ceremony held at the Nazarene church Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Mack Marrs were united in marriage with the Rev. Carlo Stepp officiating.

But their's was not the usual nuptial observance — Sunday marked the fiftieth year of wedded bliss for the Marrs couple.

To observe the occasion the couple went through the marriage ceremony, duplicating the union they had made back on Dec. 14, 1902 in Praire Grove, Arkansas.

Following the "wedding" a reception was held at their home at the Palomar Stables, with their many friends and relatives attending.

The Marrs have resided in Daly City for the past ten years. Mr. Marrs takes care of the horses and teaches riding at the stables while Mrs. Marrs is a housewife.

One reason the Marrs are so active these days, says Mr. Marrs, is that their favorite sport and hobby is horseback riding.

Both of the Marrs have their own riding horse which they make use of with regularity. Mrs. Marrs rides a horse called "Sweetheart," while her husband rides "Topsy."

The Marrs don't lack for company in their home town of Daly City. They have six children in the area and 22 grandchildren.

100 YEARS EXPERIENCE
Bringing you faster, more dependable service

Early-day utility crews answered calls for gas and electric service in horse-drawn wagons like this.

P.G. and E. was quick to use the first autos to speed service in rapidly developing California.

Today hundreds of modern P.G. and E. trucks use two-way radio, latest tools to safeguard your service.

Your P. G. and E. service crews, with a bigger job every year, have steadily increased their efficiency and capacity to serve you. Yet, the prices you pay for gas and electricity today are far below what they used to be. Today in a typical city you pay only $8 for 100 kilowatt-hours of electricity and 100 therms of gas that would have cost $60 when P. G. and E. service was young. One of the best results of 100 years experience is that gas and electricity are truly cheap throughout Northern and Central California!

CHILD'S APPAREL IS ADMISSION FOR . . . CHRISTMAS PARTY

Gifts of children's clothing, presented as admission to the tenth annual Arthur Murray Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 20, will be sent to war orphans in Korea, Herbert W. Richards, national director of the studios, announced Wednesday.

Invitations to the party, an afternoon dance to be held in the studios at 627 Sutter street from 3 to 6 p.m., have gone to more than 800 students and their friends, requesting that each guest bring an article of warm clothing such as a sweater, mittens or woolen socks, Richards said.

These gifts will be presented, for distribution in southern Korean orphanages, to Mr. Young Han Choo, consul general of the Republic of Korea, who has stated that the need for warm clothing in these gathering points for homeless children is presently acute.

Sportswomen Hold Christmas Party

The Daly City Sportswomen gathered at the home of their new madam president, Lee O'Neill, 1044 Gilmar drive, recently for their Christmas party.

A short business meeting was held with the new officers in charge.

Jerry Glenn, Agnes Watson and Vivian Crispi were appointed new delegates to district council 7. Marge Lynch, publicity chairman, and Frances Nenstiel were elected to be in charge of the year book.

With the Christmas spirit on hand a delicious pot luck dinner was enjoyed by all. Gifts, not exceeding $1 in value, were exchanged. A game of bingo was also held.

The members all extended their thanks to the hostess for making the party a success.

Large Attendance At Colma Auxiliary Christmas Party

The Ladies Auxiliary of Colma Vista Grande enjoyed a Christmas party recently with a large attendance present.

The exchanging of secret pal gifts was held as well as initiation.

Four new members were welcomed into the auxiliary. They were: Hazel Harrison, Florence Monin, Anne Korshonoff and Margaret Elmore. Plans were completed for the food baskets for the needy at Christmas time and for the visit to the veterans at Letterman hospital.

Madam president Dolores Warren spoke of the aerie and auxiliary children's Christmas party to be held at the Eagles hall this Sunday. Members children and their friends are urged to attend the party. There will be gifts, ice cream, fruits, and plenty of entertainment for all. Santa Claus is scheduled to be there in person.

Dora Black, chairman of the calendars, has finished the project and calendars for 1953 and '54 were passed out among the members. A total of 634 names were on the calendars of the different auxiliary members and their friends and families. This was the greatest number that had been placed on the calendar of the auxiliary and the calendar has always been an annual project.

EDGEWOOD GROUP WILL MEET MONDAY

Members of the Edgewood Hillside Improvement Association will meet Monday night at the American Legion Hall, 474 San Diego street, to outline the program for the coming year and to hold a Christmas social gathering.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

Capacity Crowd At Westlake PTA's Xmas Canasta Party

A capacity crowd attended the gala Christmas Canasta Party sponsored by the executive board of the Westlake PTA which was held at the clubhouse last Friday evening. All reservations were taken well in advance of the party and those attending acclaimed the evening's festivities a success.

That kindly old gentleman, Santa Claus, looked down through lovely Christmas greens upon the assembled guests. Christmas bells, Santa's favorite reindeer, clusters of pine cones and sparkling ornaments gave a festive air to the clubroom.

The high score for the evening was made by Mrs. Woodrow Green. Miss Alfea Belli won the door prize. There were many other prizes awarded to those having high scores.

Mrs. Howard A. Dunbar attended the 17th District meeting which was held at the Bayshore school, Monday, Dec. 8.

The Westlake Parent Teacher Association wishes everyone a very merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

CHRISTMAS MOTIFS BY SCHOOL KIDS ARE ON DISPLAY

The children of the Woodrow Wilson school have a number of Christmas motifs on display at the Daly City Public Library.

All of them resemble large Christmas greeting cards. Virginia Giomi, Miss Thompson's first grade, has done her impression of Santa Claus. The three dimensional Christmas tree was done by Miss Varni's first grade class. The children around the world as well as the straw reindeer and the modernistic Kings and Santa were constructed by Mrs. Pless and Mrs. Wood's fourth grades.

The idea behind it is to wish all of you a Happy Holiday Season.

Enjoyable Time Had By Those Attending Mothers Club Bazaar

The storm on Sunday, Dec. 7, did not dampen the enthusiasm of the crowd that attended the Mothers Club Bazaar of Our Lady of Pepetual Help school, according to Dorothy Strebel.

It was a huge success, and a very enjoyable time was had by all who attended, she said. The prizes were won by Mrs. Cecil Kennedy of 42 Santa Cruz avenue and Eleanor Robinson of the J. C. Penny Co.

Mrs. M. J. Cresta wishes to thank everybody for making it such a wonderful affair.

17th DISTRICT PTA WORKS WITH DA ON NARCOTICS LAWS

Mrs. Lyall Ingersoll of Daly City, citizenship chairman for the 17th district California Congress of Parents and Teachers, and other PTA officials, currently working with District Attorney Louis B. Dematteis in an effort to curtail use of narcotics and stiffen laws for narcotics offenders.

In support of the District's efforts, Dematteis has drafted a recommendation that will be forwarded to CCPT state board for approval and action, in time for the January convening of the California Legislature.

As outlined by Mr. Dematteis, the bill will seek to change sections 11712, 11713, 11715, and 11715.6 of the health and safety code of the State of California, to conform with Federal narcotic laws. Requested penalties for a first offense will be a fine of $2,000 and two to five years imprisonment; for a second offense, the fine and five to ten years; with any subsequent offense punishable by fine and ten to twenty years imprisonment.

Repeat offenders, under the proposed bill, will be denied suspension, probation, or parole until minimum sentence has been served.

Others working with the county district attorney are Mrs. Gregory Davis of San Mateo, 17th district director of public welfare; Mrs. Lester F. Nettle, San Mateo, legislative chairman; Mrs. F. E. Booth, Menlo Park, social hygiene chairman; and Mrs. Linden Stark, San Mateo, juvenile protection chairman.

Local associations will study the recommendation, and will seek the operation of allied service organizations on the peninsula.

Colma Man Returns Home After Duty

Cpl. Roy Ottoboni has returned to his home in Colma following his recent discharge and will return to the floral business there. He had been stationed in Fort Lee, Virginia.

Ottoboni was in the service for a period of two years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ottoboni, Rt. 1, box 468, Colma.

Hillside PTA Prexy Attends District Meet at Bayshore

Mrs. A. J. Nagy, Hillside PTA, president, attended the 17th District half-day meeting which was held at the Bayshore school recently.

The Colma school has brightly found the Christmas spirit. Santa Claus' and candy canes in decor have sprouted in every class room, as well as snowmen, skiers and angels. Miss Marjorie Tobias has issued an invitation to the parents to come and visit their children's classroom and see the beautiful decorations the children have put up themselves.

Mrs. Fred Bertetta, the hot-dog chairman, reports that the hot-hot-dog lunch served Wednesday, Dec. 10, was a success. A special thanks was issued to Mesdames Fred N. Kruse, A. J. Gaggero, Marie Sorenson, Jos. Verducci, Frank Mullen, E. Goldkuhl, with Miss Tobias and Ray Grado.

"Be sure and read the Newsette that each child brings home with him once a month," the PTA announces. This is a Parent-Teacher newsette and the Publicity Committee has worked very hard at putting this out. All PTA news is recorded and the principal of your school always has a message for each parent in each issue.

The regular meeting was held Wednesday, Dec. 17, at the Thornton school due to the wet weather. Building going on at the Colma school has caused the parking space to be at a minimum.

School vacation for Christmas starts Dec. 19 and continues on until Jan. 5. So Watch, Look and Listen for School Children on the Streets. Drive Carefully. Be Safe!

with their eyes on a championship year, the boys of Colma school are preparing to defend the A and B League Basketball championships that they won last year. The Colma Mustangs of the B league opened the season with a single point loss to the OLPH Rams last Saturday at Marchbanks Playground. The game showed that the boys lacked experience but not hustle.

The A league games are scheduled to begin tomorrow at Marchbanks Playground.

The Colma Mustangs led by Wayne Guisti fought an uphill battle all the way but lost to the determined OLPH Rams 18-17 in the closing seconds of the game. John Fahey led the scoring with 11 points for the Rams while Guisti countered with 9 points for the Mustangs.

Jesero Rivara, 64, Southern Pacific laborer from San Francisco, suffered minor injuries last Friday when he was struck by an auto driven by Leo John Willradel, 67, of 555 Hillside boulevard.

Rivara was attempting to walk across Bayshore highway near Geneva avenue, Bayshore City. The injured man suffered shoulder and neck injuries and was taken to South San Francisco hospital and later transferred to Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco.

Reservists Asked To Bring Military Files to Interview

San Francisco and San Mateo county Air Reservists are urged to bring their own military files when they report for personal interviews during the Air Reserve Survey now in progress at Building 8, West Campus, City College of San Francisco, Ocean and Phelan avenue, announced Lt. Colonel Martin A. Fellhauer, project officer of the inventory.

"Official files contain considerable information which, however, dates as far back as 1945 in many cases," he said. "The individual reservist may have additional documentary data, which will benefit both the reservist and the Air Force if the information is correctly inscribed in the official files. The survey is directed at bringing up to date the records of every Reservist. It is not in any way connected with the recall of any individual or group to immediate active duty."

Any Reservist who, for any reason, has not received an official notification is urged to either visit the Survey site or arrange for an appointment. It will be to his own interest to have his records properly adjusted.

Air Reservists in the area have welcomed the opportunity to supplement their files to accurately reflect their present status. While the interviews are on a voluntary basis, a large number have appeared as scheduled.

Further information may be obtained by calling JUniper 4-3147.

THE OUTDOORS

Regulation Confab

California's 1953 angling and hunting regulations will get a thorough going over before the five-man Fish and Game Commission when it meets for regulatory powers sessions in Los Angeles, January 2, and San Francisco, January 30.

Wm. J. Harp, assistant to the commission, has asked California sportsmen to make their recommendations known to the Commissioners before the first of January meeting. Post cards, letters, resolutions, petitions or telegrams are acceptable, he said.

Among the major changes from the 1952 regulations is a proposal of the Department of Fish and Game and sportsmen's groups that a two-day either-sex deer hunting period be allowed at the end of the regular deer season in certain coastal areas. Commissioners will get the proposal following a series of five January hearings in the area affected.

Personnel Officer

SACRAMENTO — Raymond S. Long of Roseville has been named personnel officer of the California Department of Fish and Game under the agency's Legislative reorganization program.

Long is a former personnel analyst for the State Personnel Board and leaves his position as assistant personnel officer in the State Department of Mental Hygiene to take the new post. The appointment is effective immediately.

A graduate of Sacramento State college, Long holds a commission as lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve.

Ten Safety Commandments

SAN FRANCISCO — "Watch That Muzzel—The Ten Commandments of Safety," a pocket-sized leaflet outlining the basic, common sense rules of good gun handling, is now available in unlimited quantities to all sportsmen's groups and individuals.

The Sporting Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers' Institute, New York, makes the offer and points out that by following these safety rules the average firearms user can personally do much to keep shooting and hunting among America's safest and finest sports.

The booklets are available without charge from the California Department of Fish and Game, Ferry Building, San Francisco.

Average Bag

TERMINAL ISLAND — Four and a half fish apiece was the average bag for the 55,000 ocean anglers who fished from California party boats during September, reports the Department of Fish and Game.

The total monthly party boat haul was 248,000 fish, as reported by the 313 boat skippers who took out sportsmen from Eureka to San Diego.

The September average was the second highest of the summer season, topped only in June when party boat anglers landed an average of 4.9 fish apiece.

Lawbreaker

AVALON—John J. Sima of 933 S. Meyler street, San Pedro, has been fined $400 for fishing with a round haul net in Catalina Island waters. The sentence was ordered by Judge Ernest Windle of Avalon after an arrest made by State Fish and Game Wardens Glen Hawkins and Jacob Myers and Captain Donald De Spain.

Audubon Society

SAN FRANCISCO — The National Audubon Society has announced the appointment of Vaughan MacCaughey as Pacific coast representative and Sandy Sprunt as assistant representative, with headquarters at 693 Sutter street, San Francisco.

MacCaughey is a former editor of the California Teachers Association Journal and acted as superintendent of public instruction of Hawaii before coming to California-Hawaii before coming to California.

Peak Bear Hunting

SAN FRANCISCO—Bear hunting—one of the most rugged of California's outdoor sports and the last of the big game of this year's sportsman's calendar—is reaching its seasonal peak in the Sierra foothills and in the northwestern forests.

The Department of Fish and Game reports that more than 5,000 of the state's black bears will be taken this year by enterprising hunters. The sport is becoming more popular each year, it is revealed by an annual post card sur-

One-half hour after sunset, Dec 31, marks the close of the 1952 hunting season. Bag limit is two bears per season.

Hunting is at its best now, the Department advises, with the bears in good flesh and pelts in prime condition.

Angler's Gift

SAN FRANCISCO—One of the best ways of saying "Merry Christmas" to the California sportsmen is by presenting him with a brand new 1953 angling license.

That's the opinion of the California Department of Fish and Game, which announced that the permits went on sale this week at five offices and 3,000 license agencies. They are required for all types of angling after Dec. 31.

The $3 resident angling license is still one of the best bargains in the recreation field, the department announcement asserts. At a cost of less than one cent a day the California angler can pursue any of hundreds of species of fish throughout the year.

36% Pheasant Bag

SAN FRANCISCO — Thirty-six per cent of the California hunters who signed up on one of the 15 State-operated cooperative hunting areas during the 1952 season came home with a pheasant.

The figures were released by Carl Van Ornum, superintendent of game farms of the Department of Fish and Game. He stated that the tally is incomplete and will probably show a greater hunter success in final form.

During the 10-day hunting season which ended Dec. 1, 63,279 hunters roamed the 135,000 acres pledged to free public hunting by cooperating landowners. A total bag of 22,899 pheasants was recorded. Last year, 54,701 Californians took 21,781 birds from 11 areas.

Cooperative hunting areas, their 1951 hunter success percentage, followed by 1952 success:

Staten Island, San Joaquin county; 37%; 37%; Ryer Island, Solano county; 44%; 37%; Sutter Basin, Sutter county; 41%; 36%; Natomas, Sacramento and Sutter counties; 28%; 28%;

Grimes, Colusa and Yolo counties; 45%; 46%; Sartain Ranch, Colusa and Glenn counties; 56%; 52%; Butte Creek, Butte and Glenn counties; 26%; 25%; Meridian, Sutter county; 57%; 46%; Los Banos, Merced county; 34%; 38%; Firebaugh, Fresno county; 37%; 45%; Twitchell Island, Sacramento county; 22%; 28%.

Four new areas were in operation for the first time this year. Hunter success on the Tyler Island area in Sacramento county, and the McArthur-P. G. & E. area in Shasta county averaged 45%. Twenty-two per cent of the 2,796 hunters at the Union Island area is San Joaquin county took a bird, while 26% scored in the Yolo area in Yolo county.

Three winners will be selected from both the Junior and Teenage Divisions and be presented with trophies, and a special cash award to each of the first place winners.

The Talent Contest Committee of this Post are working on plans to continue these events in connection with their Youth and Welfare Program during the year of 1953.

The Post Auxiliary have rendered very strong support to this youth program throughout the year.

AN ACCIDENTAL ACTOR

By RIDGELY CUMMINGS

Well, I finally made it. After more than a year of intermittent effort I have at last climbed aboard the payroll of a motion picture studio.

True, the event transpired by chance and I find myself employed in an unexpected capacity. But that's Hollywood, where the topsy-turvy is standard operating procedure. I have become an actor, a movie actor if you please, and if I seem to speak with a broad English accent why that's just the influence of propinquity.

In the near future there will be released upon an unsuspecting public a Paramount picture called "The Caddy," starring Jerry Lewis, Dean Martin, Barbara Bates, Margaret Cagne, Tom Gaddis and Ridgely Cummings.

Comedians, of Course

Martin and Lewis are of course the zany comedians of a dozen previous hits. They play practical jokes between takes, kid and ad lib during rehearsals and amuse everybody on the set with the possible exception of Director Norman Taurog, whose expression becomes progressively more harassed from day to day.

Barbara Bates is a willowy young lady with regular features resembling those of a dozen other actresses, enhanced by intense blue eyes and a pleasant smile. She reads translations of Greek poetry between camera calls and is easy to talk to. Somebody told me she was the stage-struck girl who appeared at the very end of "All About Eve" but I forgot to check with her on this. We talked about French drama and especially "Madwoman of Chaillot."

If the names of Margaret Gagne, Tom Gaddis and my own seem totally unfamiliar on the credit lists, that's because we three are making a simultaneous debut.

Margaret Gagne is a 26-year-old English war bride with thick black hair and dancing green eyes, Tom Gaddis is a thirtyish intellectual with rough-hewn handsome face who teaches a night school course, and the less said about the last name in the above list the better.

Margaret was born in Cornwall, in a town named Newquay, and she wants me to go there sometime. When she was 14, at the start of the war, a bomb dropped near her and damaged her ear drum. By the time she was 18 she was improved enough to join the ATS, which was the British equivalent of the WAC and stood for Auxiliary Training Service.

Unfavorable Comparison

She served in London, which she didn't like because it compared so unfavorably to the countryside of Cornwall, where Tristran and Iseult made love under the nose of King Mark and some centuries later Margaret walked in the rain and dreamed of a romantic future.

When she was 19 Margaret married an American Sergeant named Mr. Gagne and moved to Connecticutt. There at reasonable intervals she gave birth to two babies and then, in the peripabetic way of Americans, she moved her family to California.

Thus it happened that she was able to spend a few days before the cameras on the golf course of the Rivera Country Club in the company of Tom Gaddis and me.

I know more about Margaret than Tom because I spent more time listening to her. But in the easy cameraderie of a location jaunt all three of us got extremely well acquainted in a few days. By lunch of the first day we were exchanging baby pictures, each of us exhibiting a pair. Tom had two girls, me two boys and the Cornwall pixie one of each.

Tom Gaddis turned out to be another writer. He too was working on a waiver, which meant he was not a member of SAG or SEG, the screen actors and screen extras guilds. This was unfortunate because waiver people don't get paid as much as union members.

At first Tom indicated he was there just for the experience and the fun and I implied that this was true of me also. After we got to know each other better we started leveling. Soon we had admitted that it wasn't the principle of the thing that attracted us but the money and we entered into an agreement to help each other if either one of us discovered a method of wangling a guild card, which is difficult to secure.

Stars Start Early

The day starts very early for a Hollywood actor, even for stars such as Dean Martin and me.

I arrived a the gates of Paramount Studios breathlessly and minus breakfast at a few minutes past 7:30. The location buses were loading and some of them had already left. I murmured my name doubtfully to a personnel assitant who had a wad of tags and a list of names in his had.

Sure enough he had my name written down thereon, which restored my ebbing faith in human nature, for an influential friend had said he would fix me up but he had made the promise in such an offhand way that I doubted if he would remember it.

I was given a lapel ticket reading "Monterey Open, Monterey Country Club, Established Price $2.09, Federal Tax .42, total $2.50."

With the tag was an instruction sheet which I quote in full:

"You are working on 'The Caddy,' a Martin and Lewis production, directed by Mr. Norman Taurog.

"Since you will be working on and around the grounds of private golf clubs please do not throw refuse of any kind on the grounds or mutilate them in any way.

"The scenes you will be enacting are of spectators and personnel at a professional golf match. Please wear the tag which was issued to you at the Casting Office in plain view (sic).

Thanking You

"These tags are to be shown on your person at all times and will be needed when you receive your lunch. Your cooperation and help during the day will be greatly appreciated. Thanking you, Mickey Moore, Clem Jones, Harvey Dwight, Assistant Directors."

By the time I had digested this information I was in the bus and halfway to Brentwood. Seated next to me was a young man named Johnny Roman who had given up pugilism for acting.

Out of his previous experience Johnny briefed me on what to expect. As soon as the bus stopped, he made a bee-line for the coffee wagon, with me close on his heels.

We were too late for doughnuts, which had all been snared by the early busloads of actors, but Johnny grabbed two paper cups. He filled them both and walked up to a blonde girl in a Sadie Thompson makeup. She wore a tight and well-filled sweater, an abbreviated and close-fitting skirt and she gave Johhny a big smile of welcome as she accepted the coffee.

Since Johnny was a seasoned player I decided his example was worthy of emulation. I too captured two paper cups. One I filled for myself and the other for a slender young girl in a tweed suit.

Her thick wavy hair and elfin expression caught my eye and I had a perfect excuse to approach her since her hands were filled with feminine paraphenalia. This included transparent rubber overshoes to protect her feet from the morning dew on the fairway, the usual bulging purse and a sort of pogo stick which was capable of opening out into a fairly comfortable seat.

I Was Committed

This girl turned out to be Margaret. We got in a couple of establishing shots right away and thus I was committed as her escort, a circumstance which from my point of view was entirely fortunate.

As we were drinking our early morning coffee the first day, Dean Martin, elegant in gray slacks and a blue sweater, came strolling up swinging a golf club.

The star halted a few feet from me and was immediately surrounded by a bevy of girls. I was talking to Margaret and didn't pay much attention to Martin until I noticed I was narrating into a vacuum.

Margaret was watching him with undisguised admiration, unaware for the moment of my presence at her side. Having nothing better to do, I too looked and listened, just in time to hear the handsome actor say, probably in reply to some kidding remark from one of the girls:

"I'm not so old. Just thirty-six, and five children too, don't forget that. Oh, there may be a gray hair here or there on the temples but we paint them up for times like this."

Then He Arrived

There was more of this bandinage, which I didn't bother to commit to memory, and then Jerry Lewis drove onto the scene in a sleek convertible. He was dressed casually in slacks, a shirt and sleeveless sweater, topped by a ridiculous checked cap. Before he got out of his car he had the group of us laughing at his inane quips and whenever I was in his company during the next eight hours he was still going strong.

It must be quite wearing to be a funny man all day long but Lewis seemed to thrive on it. I'll have more to say about him and the others, for it looks like my experience as an actor is going to turn into a continued story. But right now I have to hit the hay so I can get up at six tomorrow morning and go out on location again. And anyway my space is all gone.

MEMBERS of the Crocker school PTA are shown presenting a television set to Elisabeth Kennedy, school principal (at right). Purchase of the set for the school was made possible by the bazaar held recently which netted the PTA $300. Miss Kennedy said the set will be used for educational purposes, such as inauguration of the president and other national events. The set is mounted on wheels so that it may be moved to various classrooms. Crocker school is the second in the area to have its own television set. PTA members pictured here are (left to right): Mrs. Thomas Mullen, past president and historian; Mrs. Eugene Schamale, vice president; and Mrs. Alvin Lyon, president.

They will be installed Jan. 27 at a luncheon to be held at the Grace Presbyterian church, Crocker and Winchester streets, at 12:30 p.m.

Pitiful Pleas of Pretty Little Girl Not Heard on Thanksgiving--She Has No Home

The pitiful pleas of a pretty little girl for a home to call her own were not heard and went unanswered during the Thanksgiving holidays according to JACKIE, the interdenominational San Francisco foster home finding service.

Vickie Romero, as she is called, (Ed. Note: Social agency ethics require use of a pseudonym) feels justified in being disillusioned. She thinks she is the only person in the world who doesn't believe in Thanksgiving Day, because she has no reason for giving thanks. Since 1949 Vickie has been a ward patient at San Francisco Hospital. Six months ago she was told by her doctors that she was well enough to go home. But she has no home of her own. JACKIE hopes to find Vickie a foster home by Christmas. Otherwise, she might even scrap Santa Claus, too.

The child's father and mother deserted her almost ten years ago and she has never heard from them since. She has no relatives other than one little brother who is in an orphanage. The children are public wards and are supervised by Little Children's Aid of Catholic Social Service. Her only regular visitor is her social worker, Mrs. Helen Farzan.

Vickie is still in the hospital waiting for some generous family to give her a home. The constant efforts of social agencies to find her a home for long-time foster care have been fruitless. Vickie is getting anxious and impatient. Actually, she is a little afraid to leave the hospital and its sheltered care. But day by day she becomes more ready and interested in moving into normal family life and social activities.

In the beginning of her placement in a new home Vickie will need some bed rest and a moderately special diet. A home teacher will be supplied to assist her in catching up on her junior high school work.

Most important of all, Vickie will need real interest, understanding and affection to help her get used to family life again and to teen-age activities. Because of her arrested medical condition (she once had tuberculosis), she cannot be with children younger than 14.

Vickie has long, dark hair and olive skin, with bright brown eyes and a captivating smile. She is a mature, friendly, appealing Filipino youngster with all the challenges a teen-ager brings. She is the darling of the hospital ward. Everyone loves her engaging laugh, even though people would say she has nothing to laugh about.

Thanksgiving Day, 1952, had no meaning for 13-year-old Vickie Romero. Hopefully, some kind San Francisco Bay Area family will share their blessings with her for Christmas and for a long time to come. For Vickie's care, Catholic Social Service will provide an extra special boarding rate plus all medical and clothing expenses, incidentals and extras. Four further information please call or write JACKIE of San Francisco, 2015 Steiner street, WAlnut 1-0665.

PARKING RESTRICTIONS

One car illegally parked can create a bottleneck in a whole line of traffic. Don't double-park, and when the sign says no parking, don't! Retrictions on parking during busy hours are imposed for the benefit of all drivers, points out the California State Automobile Association.

BAYSHORE PTA SEES MOVIES AT MEETING

Bayshore school PTA held their regular meeting Dec. 10 at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium. Following the opening address by Mrs. L. V. Ottinger, president, Mrs. Cleo Filsinger from Pacific Gas and Electric Company's home economic department, presented a movie, "Parties on Parade."

Many colorful styles and pointers were shown on how to prepare attractive food for parties. Also a movie on "Girl Scouting" was presented by Florence Anderson, profession girl scout, of San Bruno. She announced a great need for group leaders in the Bayshore area due to the turn over of service personnel.

It was requested that native residences of this area take over the three groups which are now organized here. Those who are interested may obtain information by contacting Natalie Lipman, superintendent of Bayshore school, or writing the Girl Scout office, 207 El Camino Real, San Bruno. After the meeting concluded coffee and deserts were served by parents of the Bayshore PTA.

San Francisco is the seventh city in the United States to possess a large, modern planetarium.

Jeff Elementary School Decorated For Christmas

The Jefferson Elementary school is decorated in the Christmas theme. The principal, Marie Traynor, cordially invites all to visit the school and see the lovely Christmas decoration in the rooms. Mrs. Hazel Colwell, principal of Thornton, also has her school decorated very beautifully and invites those interested to visit the rooms.

Mrs. Sanford Vickers, president, attended the 17th District half-day meeting which was held at Bayshore School on Dec. 8.

On Wednesday, Dec. 10, at 11:55 to 1 p.m. the teachers at Jefferson Elementary School held a luncheon at the teachers room in Jefferson; the following mothers made it possible for the teachers to attend and enjoy it as the mothers supervised the children on the playground: Mrs. Edward J. Dennis, Mrs. W. T. Woodbury, Mrs. William Bauer, Mrs. A. Tuvo, Mrs. Bockwinkel, Mrs. J. D. Hopper and Mrs. June Newman.

The individual school room parties were held yesterday. The Colma school provided cookies, ice-cream, Santa and the rest.

On Monday at the Serra Theatre, the Daly City recreation department is holding its Christmas party for the children from Jefferson and Thornton. There will also be a treet for the kiddies, with the help of the Joint PTAs and Mothers club. The children will have adequate supervision while at the theatre and the firemen will also be there.

Christmas vacation starts Dec. 19 and continues until Jan. 5. So while there are so many children on the streets, do watch, look and listen for them, the PTA asks.

All Woodrow Wilson Classes Will Have Christmas Parties

There will be Christmas parties given to each and every class room in Woodrow Wilson school today.

Room mothers will be on hand to help teachers serve cookies and ice cream to the children. Santa Claus is scheduled to visit all the class rooms with candy cones for the children.

Songs and games will be the activity for the party time.

The regular monthly meeting will be held at 1:15 p.m., Jan. 20. A play entitled, "Fresh and Variable Winds," will be presented with a cast of five high school students included.

The Woodrow Wilson PTA has extended a merry holiday greeting to all.
